ANNOUNCEMENT

The present number is devoted almost completely to the proceedings of the Eleventh Annual Meeting of the Institute in Boston. We have omitted the sections on Judicial Decisions on Criminal Law and Procedure, Notes and Reviews. One article herein, that by Mrs. June Purcell-Guild, was accepted definitely for this particular number some months ago. Of the proceedings of the Boston meeting there yet remain the paper by Mrs. Mary E. Paddon, on "The Work of the Inferior Criminal Courts," and that by Mrs. Jessie Hodder relating to her parole experiments in Framingham, Mass. These papers will be ready for publication in the next following number.

SUSTAINING MEMBERS OF THE INSTITUTE

The following named persons, citizens of Boston and environs, made generous contribution to create a fund to defray the expenses of the Eleventh Annual Meeting of the Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology in Boston, September 2 and 3, 1919. In other ways, too, they worked to create the spirit that assured the success of the meeting. By order of the Executive Board of the Institute on October 6, these persons were made Sustaining Members of the organization for the year 1919-1920.

Mrs. Esther M. Andrews, 129 Winthrop road, Brookline.

Mrs. George W. Rice, Westwood.

Nathan Pinanski, 101 Milk street, Boston.

Mrs. Margaret P. Russell, 20 Commonwealth avenue, Boston.

The Honorable Moorfield Storey, 24 Fenway, Boston.

George R. Nutter, 8 West Cedar street, Boston.

The Honorable Wm. C. Loring, Supreme Court, Boston.

James F. Lord, 281 St. Paul street, Brookline.

Robert Herrick, Milton.

Robert Grant, 211 Bay State road, Boston.

The Hon. Wilfred Bolster, Municipal Court, Boston.

The Hon. Sherman L. Whipple, Brookline.

The Hon. Charles De Courcy, Supreme Court, Boston.

The Hon. J. M. Grosvenor, Jr., Salem.

Sanford Bates, City Hall, Boston.
 Frederick P. Fish, Brookline.
 Arthur D. Hill, Esq., 17 Brimmer street, Boston.
 The Hon. John A. Aiken, Superior Court, Boston.
 The Hon. Eugene N. Foss, Cohasset.
 R. M. Saltonstall, 99 Bay State road, Boston.
 Edwin E. Mulready, Rockland.
 C. H. Davenport, Esq., 53 State street, Boston.

The following named persons, in addition to those named above, are Sustaining Members of the Institute for three years (unless otherwise indicated) by reason of their having subscribed to the Journal Fund:

Bronson Winthrop, New York City, Treasurer of the Institute.
 The Honorable Hugo Pam, Chicago, President of the Institute.
