

Summer 1951

Northwestern University's Centennial

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarlycommons.law.northwestern.edu/jclc>

 Part of the Criminal Law Commons, Criminology Commons, and the Criminology and Criminal Justice Commons

---

Recommended Citation

Northwestern University's Centennial, 42 J. Crim. L. Criminology & Police Sci. 1 (1951-1952)

This Editorial is brought to you for free and open access by Northwestern University School of Law Scholarly Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Journal of Criminal Law and Criminology by an authorized editor of Northwestern University School of Law Scholarly Commons.

EDITORIAL

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY'S CENTENNIAL

The Editorial Board of this Journal has designated our Volume 42, which begins with the present number,

THE NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY CENTENNIAL VOLUME

This action is a recognition of the First Centenary of the University. Several scholars will participate in making the volume a worthy addition to the literature of Criminology. Among them are:

James V. Bennett, Director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons

B. E. Carihfield, Council of State Governments, cooperating with

Mitchell Wendell, Professor of Political Science in the American International College

Albert J. Harno, Dean of the College of Law, University of Illinois

Fred E. Inbau, Professor of Criminal Law, Northwestern University

Joseph D. Lohman, Chairman, Illinois Division of Corrections

Charles H. Z. Meyer, U. S. Probation Officer, Chicago District

Winfred Overholser, M. D., Superintendent, St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Washington, D. C.

O. W. Wilson, Dean of the School of Criminology, University of California, Berkeley

Each writer named above will show what developments have come to pass in his own field within the past one hundred years, its present status and, possibly, what next steps should be taken for further development.

We have made a slight verbal change in the title of this Journal. It has often been suggested that the term "criminology" is inclusive enough to justify The Journal of Criminology, and these words alone, to designate our periodical. This is undoubtedly true but it seemed best to avoid making such a wide departure from our familiar phraseology. We have given the Journal a new dress, also, which features the University color.—THE EDITORS.